

2010 Finalist

Be Inspired

Thought Leadership in Infrastructure

Amsterdam, NL

Innovation in Utility Transmission and Distribution Networks

State Nuclear Electric Power Planning Design & Research Institute

The Innovation of Transformer Substation

Qingdao, China

State Nuclear Electric Power Planning Design & Research Institute

- The $6 million Ningdong-Shandong transmission line is the world's first 660 kilovolt high-voltage direct current power transmission link in China. The goals for the project included exploring new approaches to transformer substation design, improving the accuracy and efficiency of design and installation, and lowering operation and maintenance costs.

